Children and Young People's Back to School Survey 2020

Background

A total of 255 children and young people responded to our Back to School Survey 2020, with a fairly even split between boys (42%) and girls (55%). Most respondents are going back to primary school in September (60%), with the remainder returning to secondary school, some for the first time.

Returning to school in September

Two out of five children said they feel positively about returning to school; but one in five feel negatively. Many children and young people have mixed feelings.

How do you feel about going back to school in September?

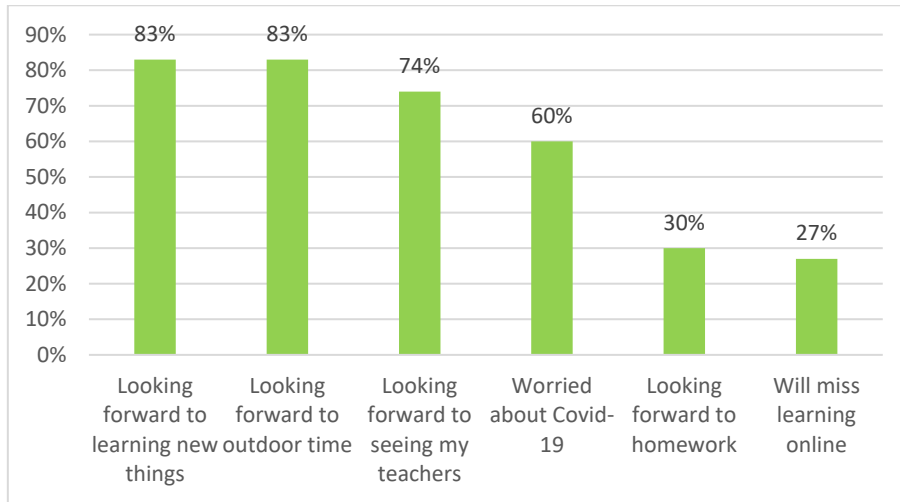

Children and young people said they are looking forward to learning new things (83%) and outdoor time such as PE, games or sports (83%).

Three quarters of respondents (74%) also said they are looking forward to seeing their teachers, but most children and young people (70%) are not looking forward to homework.

Three out of five children and young people (60%) said they are worried about Covid-19 when they think of returning to school.

Returning to School

Home-schooling

Children and young people reported a wide range of emotions about being home from school because of Covid-19

How does being home from school since March make you feel?

There was an even 50:50 split between those who loved having a parent as a teacher and those who did not. On learning beside siblings most children and young people felt more negatively, with 65% saying they did not enjoy trying to learn with a brother or sister.
